Suha Jarrar is a Palestinian human rights activist with Al Haq, a United Church partner that helps surface information and often-painful stories that are an important part of United Church public witness on Palestine and Israel. In her work, she draws a direct link between the military occupation, gender, and the growing impacts of climate change on Palestinians living under that occupation. She's in Canada to share that story with us.

It is harder and harder for Palestinians to get travel permission, and Suha's visa was granted only the day before her flight. This explains why this event notice is last minute, and why this is a rare opportunity for a number of groups across the Prairies to hear from her in person.

The Regina CGIT would like to announce that they are joining in a partnership with Knox Metropolitan United Church. This has been a very long and difficult journey for our group. We were genuinely overwhelmed at the warm welcome we received from so many Churches. After a great deal of thought, discussion and prayer we have decided that Knox Met. is the best fit for our group. Having decided this, however, we would like to remind everyone that we are the REGINA CGIT and are always excited to receive invitations to participate in events around the city.

We would like to thank all of those who met with us for your patience and understanding as we have gone through this difficult process. The CGIT look forward to seeing what the future holds as a part of the Knox Met. family and hope that this partnership will offer us the opportunity to be involved with the larger Regina community.

Thank you,
Regina CGIT
