Abby Wolfe, Public Awareness Coordinator, Alzheimer Society of Saskatchewan.
The Alzheimer Society of Saskatchewan is the province's leading non-profit providing support, information and education to people affected by Alzheimer's disease and dementia.

Presentation:

Dementia affects more than just memory, and can cause changes in an individual's abilities, behaviour, and communication. Attendees at this presentation will learn more about dementia and what someone with dementia can experience. They will also learn about ways that they can help reduce stigma and create a more dementia friendly Saskatchewan by becoming more supportive, inclusive and accessible! The presentation will briefly highlight Alzheimer Society programs and services that are available to people affected by dementia, their care partners, family and friends.
